1) In para 93 of chapter III of their Report, the Prison Reforms Committee observe that it is undesirable to herd civil prisoners along with convicted criminals within the same enclosure even if in a separate block. The Committee suggest that it would be best to confine them in a separate institution under purely judicial control and that if this cannot be done, they should be kept in a separate building or in a block outside of, or altogether detached from the rest of the criminal prison, in such a way as to prevent all possibility of contact, accidental or other.

2) The Inspector-General of Prisons states in respect of this recommendation that civil prisoners are confined in a separate ward and no convict criminal is put along with them.

3) Proper arrangements are already in existence for the segregation of civil prisoners from criminal prisoners. A rule on the following lines may however be ~~made~~ added to Chapter 42 of the Jail Manual as Rule 628 A on the lines of Rule 886 of the Bengal Jail Manual:-

"Civil prisoners shall be confined in a separate ward and shall not be allowed to hold communication or being associated with criminal prisoners."

Extract from the recommendations of the Prison Reforms Committee and the views of the Inspector-General of Prisons thereon.

Recommendation No. 75.

It is undesirable to herd civil prisoners along with convicted criminals within the same enclosure even if in a separate block. It would be best to confine them in a separate institution under purely judicial control, and if this cannot be done, they should be kept in a separate building or block outside of, or altogether detached from the rest of the criminal prison.

The views of the Inspector-General of Prisons thereon:-

The civil prisoners are confined in a separate ward and no convict criminal is put along with them.

Recommendation No. 75 of the Prison Reforms Committee regarding the segregation of civil prisoners and the views of the Inspector-General of Prisons thereon.

Order p. 4014 dated 15.12.43
In paragraph 98 of Chapter III of their

Report, the Prison Reforms Committee observe that it is undesirable to herd civil prisoners/with convicted criminals within the same enclosure even if in a separate block, and suggest that it would be best to confine them in a separate institution under purely judicial control and that if this cannot be done, they should be kept in a separate building or in a block outside of, or altogether detached from, the rest of the criminal prisoners in such a way as to prevent all possibility of contact, accidental or other.

The Inspector-General of Prisons ~~states in respect~~ ~~of this recommendation~~ that civil prisoners are confined in a separate ward and no convict is put along with them.

~~Order No.~~

pe
~~Dated Bangalore, December 1943.~~

Government observe that proper arrangements are thus already in existence for the segregation of civil prisoners from criminal prisoners. They are however pleased to direct that the following be added in Chapter 42 ~~of the Mysore Prison Rules~~ as Rule 628

of the Jail Manual:-

"Civil Prisoners shall be confined in a separate ward and shall not be allowed to hold communication or be associated with criminal prisoners."
